

Beef Category

Beef Loin, Short Loin,
Short-cut #174

#18277 Beef Loin T-Bone Steak

1. Tenderize the whole Beef Short Loin. (New York side up)
2. Remove any remaining spinal cord back strap and fat in the spinal column 100%.
3. Face cut the large end of the short loin (Porterhouse) – ½ inch.
4. Chine the backbone of the short loin on the Meat saw to remove excess chine bone.
5. Cut the Short Loin into steaks starting at the large end (Porterhouse) on the Meat saw, cut T-bone Steaks until you come close to the 13th Rib bone (about 3 inches from the end of the Short Loin). No rib bone should be present in any T-bone Steak.
6. Bone the remaining small end of the short loin and process as per our New York Steak specifications.
7. Trim the T-bone Steaks to ¼-inch external fat and trim ¼ inch past the false eye muscle. Remove any back strap from the New York muscle (longis-simus dorsi).
8. Scrape both sides of steaks with bone duster.
9. Package large end and small end steaks together and sell both T-bone and Porterhouse steaks as T-bone Steaks.