Beef Round Top #169A

#33716 Beef Round Top Round Roast

1. Tenderize the whole Top Round (inside).
2. Remove any dark exposed meat from the top of the inside muscle.
3. Remove any bones, cartilage, blood veins and lymph glands.
4. The first cut of the Top Round should be face cut approximately 1" off the Round and used for Ground Beef.
5. Back of inside is to be fact cut exposing a 2" minimum surface.
6. Split Top Round into 2 equal halves lengthwise.

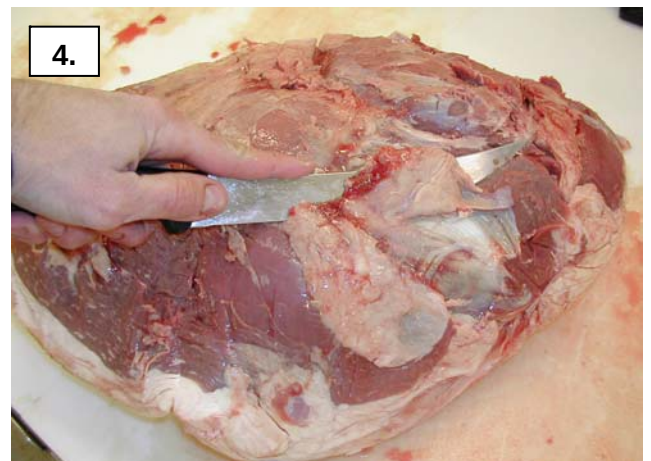

1. Face cut any exposed meat, and remove any area damaged from steam pasteurization.

2. Remove any bone felt present on inside round.

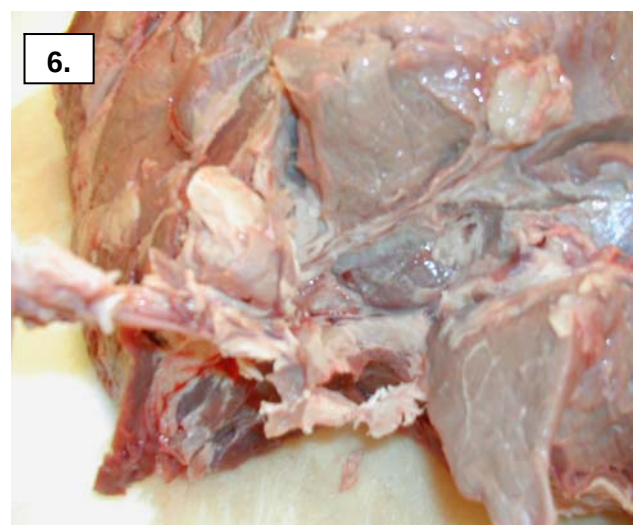

3. On bottom side of inside muscle, remove any jelled fat and heavy membrane near back of the muscle.

4. On bottom side of inside muscle, remove any jelled fat and heavy membrane near back of the muscle.

5. On bottom side of inside muscle, remove any veins.

6. Both from the front of the inside round.

And from the side of the inside round.
Be careful to remove vein and not the red meat.
This is an area where cutters get sloppy.

Once the inside has been trimmed to desired level, (see picture), we can now start to cut inside into steaks or roasts.

If inside round is to be used for steaks than a 1" face cut is to be taken and used for ground beef - otherwise you can cut desired width for roasts.
